COLLINS IS READY TO APPEAR BEFORE BOARD

STATES TO NEBRASKAN REPORTER HIS WILLINGNESS.

NO EVIDENCE YET FILED

Eligibility Committee Offers Elliott a Chance to Prosecute—Student Sentiment With Collins.

The eligibility committee of the athletic board will meet tonight in Dr. Wolf's office. They will receive the evidence, if there is any to be offered against the eligibility of Sidney Collins, who is charged with professionalism by a number of university professors and alumni.

The committee meeting tonight will not be an open session. The committee itself has no power to act, but will report its findings to the athletic board at a later meeting should a report seem necessary.

Collins is Ready.

Sidney Collins stands ready and willing to assist in preserving the good name of Nebraska. He stated last night, when called over the telephone by a Nebraskan reporter, that he would be glad to go before the proper committee at any time, especially since he felt that athletics in the university are deserving of the best confidence of both faculty and students.

Collins will not be asked to appear before the committee tonight, no evidence having as yet been filed against him. He has been certified as to his qualification to take part in the Missouri Valley meet next Saturday. The meeting tonight will not be an investigation of charges, but simply an endeavor on the part of the committee to see whether or not the evidence forthcoming is sufficient to warrant cancelling Collins' entries in the Saturday meet.

Not an Investigation.

It is in no manner an investigation of the affair, but Clyde Elliott, sporting editor of the Omaha Daily Bee, has been invited by the committee to present the charge he has been stating he would make against Collins. Although no written charges had been made up to last night, some of the newspapers have contained wild stories stating that a charge had been preferred. This is entirely a mistake. A Nebraskan reporter interviewed Dr. H. K. Wolfe, chairman of the eligibility committee, last night and he stated that none had as yet been filed, but that Mr. Elliott had been invited to bring in his evidence at the meeting tonight.

Although no statements have officially been made, it is the general opinion of students that two university professors and as many alumni of the university are giving their attention to the prosecution of the Collins case, but they do not think that all will appear before the committee.

COTNER HERE TOMORROW

MEETS OUTLAWS IN ONLY GAME OF THE SEASON ON NEBRASKA FIELD.

The only inter-collegiate baseball game to be played at Nebraska will come off Thursday at 3:30 when Cotner meets the University Outlaws. In a game last week the Outlaws trimmed Cotner 4 to 2 and Cotner has sworn to come back today.

Cotner is champion of the intercollegiate league of Nebraska and has an excellent team. They have been saving their best pitcher to redeem them in this game. The Outlaws have been defeated only once this season, that being by the Lincoln Western league team. They have the best material in the university, and Manager Hascall says he has the best pitcher the university has ever seen. It will be a game well worth your money. The admission will be 25 cents.

WIN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

NEBRASKA TEAM WINS THE MISSOURI VALLEY MEET AT KANSAS CITY.

Nebraska on last Saturday won the Missouri Valley tennis championship. The meet was the first one and it is planned to have one annually after this. Nebraska, Ames and Kansas had teams entered, Missouri failing to show up. The courts of the Kansas City Athletic Club, of Kansas City, Mo., were used.

The Nebraska team consisted of Captain Weaverling, Smith, Goodbody and Tate. These men simply ran away from their opponents. Out of twelve matches, they won eleven. Weaverling and Smith won their doubles, as did Goodbody and Tate, leaving the championship in doubles of the valley to be decided between the two Nebraska teams. This match will be pulled off on the campus courts one day this week.

Goodbody was defeated once in the singles. The other three men won every match. It is said that all played in brilliant form and deserved their victory by better playing.

PLACE NOT YET SETTLED.

Site for Encampment Will Probably Be Ashland.

Arrangements for departure to the annual camp are rapidly being made by the Military Department of the University of Nebraska. And because of the extended period of seven days, the details are much more complicated than they have previously been.

The place of camp this year has not been definitely settled. This feature of the annual program has probably created more discussion than everything else together. In the opinion of the entire student body, the camp location has shifted to nearly every hallowed ground in Nebraska. In all probability, however, the camp will be held at Ashland on the same grounds as last year. Furthermore, only one factor may arise to change these plans, namely, that the United States regular army will reach Ashland before the end of the week. In this event, they can prepare to range for target practice by Saturday morning, enabling the university cadets marksmen to visit Ashland Saturday and complete all shooting. If such a circumstance should arise, there is some probability that the camp will be held in Beatrice—the grounds noted for the "Battle of Strawberry Ridge."

All camp dues must be paid this week. These can be paid at the quartermaster's office between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m., and between 4 p. m. and 6 p. m.

WEDDING INVITATIONS OUT.

Richard Hargreaves to Marry Grace Bryan at Fairview.

The marriage of Richard L. Hargreaves and Grace Bryan will be solemnized June 7 at Fairview. Mr. Hargreaves is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and a banquet will be given by the fraternity in his honor on June 3. Following is the form of the wedding invitation:

"Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan will give in marriage their daughter, Grace Dexter, to Mr. Richard Lewis Hargreaves, on Wednesday evening, the seventh of June, at 8 o'clock at Fairview. The honor of your presence is requested."

COMPET FRIDAY

A Half Holiday for the Annual Military Spelldown.

The annual competitive drill of the seven cadet companies will be held Friday afternoon on Nebraska field. In addition to the company contest, an individual spelldown will decide who are the best drilled men in the regiment. The company sponsors will be specially honored guests of the day. In order to allow all students to attend the exercises a half holiday has been granted by the university authorities.

GET BOOKS BY SATURDAY.

Cornhuskers Will Then Be Sold Regardless.

Cornhuskers will probably not be held for persons who have ordered them later than Saturday morning. No official announcement has been made by the business manager, but he stated last night that all unclaimed copies, if there were any such, would be placed on general sale within a few days and probably on Saturday.

SENIOR PLAY TO BE INFORMAL ---GENERAL TICKET SALE TODAY

The senior play committee, at its meeting last night decided to make the play Saturday evening informal The committee suggested a formal affair in the first place to test the sentiment in the university. It has been found that the student body as a whole is opposed to formality on such occasions and therefore the change in the plans.

Tickets for the play go on sale today at the Oliver. The time for senior reservations ended yesterday and now the entire student body will have a chance to get their seats. The house is about half sold out. About 200 seats have been asked for by suburban schools like Wesleyan and Cotner.

The play is now a finished production. The cast has been working very hard, how hard but few appreciate, and their work is said to be all that a professional company could put on.

PROFESSOR BARBOUR MAKES PLE FOR CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

TELLS OF PARKS IN MANY CITIES OF WORLD.

FINE VIEWS FROM PHOTOS ON TRIPS

Show Value of Parks and the Kinds That Furnish Best Places for Children's Enjoyment.

Professor Barbour made an ardent plea for civic improvement in his address on Park Systems at convocation yesterday moning. He said that every citizen had a duty to perform in making his home and city better places to live in. Improvements should not be made for self alone, but for the benefit of the community.

A very interesting set of stereopticon slides pictured some of the places that needed improvements and some of those which would serve as examples of what can be done. Some places in Lincoln were shown that are a disgrace to the city. The outskirts of the city is an unsightly dumping ground. Walks and alleys are, in places, in very bad condition. Professor Barbour said that one of the main reasons Americans spent so much money in foreign countries was to escape the dirt and ugliness of some of the American cities. The people of Lincoln are always running to St. Paul and Minneapolis or other cities where there are cool and beautiful places.

A Six Million Dollar Park.

A fine example of parking is given by the city of Boston. No child in the city lives more than half a mile from some park. There are many, many playgrounds and athletic fields for people to enjoy. On Manhattan Island $6,000,000 has just been spent for nine acres which will be parked. Other large sums have been spent in the past. The people of New York have to have places of recreation and rest no matter what the cost is. One good feature of Boston and other eastern cities is its streets, says Professor Barbour. They are curved and one can reach places without long distances around. They break the monotony.

Chicago is spending $30,000,000 in parks. One is to be twenty-five miles long. Washington, D. C., has elegant parks all over the city. The streets here are the best arranged of any American city. One way they run parallel and the others run diagonal to these. This gives a continual new vista as one reaches a new intersection.

Attractive Park Plans.

In London they have the polygonal system of parking. No street comes in contact with the parks and they are entirely protected. In Moscow the belt arrangement is used. The parks run in concentric rings throughout the city. Each is very effective. In one park in London when Professor Barbour was there, 5,000 children were playing. There was nothing formal about the park, which was what made it so successful. The speaker thought parks like those of Louis XIV were not successful as places for relaxation. They were very beautiful, but children couldn't play on flowerbeds. The simpler the parks the better.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 24, 1911

Too bad the Cornhusker management did not provide large dry goods boxes for waste paper yesterday morning west of the Temple.

It is now time to begin to cram and bone for the exams that will come next week. After all of our hopes for one hour tests we are to go through another season of two-hour struggles.

Did you see that one on us? Our swat was of the slander variety and decidedly worse than we had expected. We are prepared to meet the joke editor at any time he desires to receive our compliments. And again we challenge the Cornhusker staff to a game of baseball.

The season of ventilated lids has again arrived. The prehistoric straw piles have begun to decorate the campus. Right cool they look, too. There is nothing which really pleases a man more than to have the time of year roll around when he can confiscate the old winter headgear and appear in a nice, neat, new straw hat.

We are all slaves to custom and that awful book of etiquiette forbids men from being comfortably clad during the summer months. In other words, men have been foolish enough in the past to go about the campus half smothered in heavy, long coats just because some fellow last season did not take off the old woolen shroud. And that is the best reason any of us can find for wearing our coats in the class room. The man who refuses to be bound by custom is the man who deserves praise and that is the reason we give this space to compliment the five young men who attended a political science class the other day in their shirt sleeves.

SOME ARE OFFENDED.

Sorority Girls and Rope Cause Trouble for Cornhusker Editors.

The troubles of the Cornhusker staff have begun. Several of those who were mentioned in the joke department have declared vengeance without quarter, in spite of past warnings. It is said one bunch of girls, angry because something had been left out that should have been in, actually came into the office with a rope, determined to have the editor burned at the stake or punished in some other mild way. Everyone in the office left through the windows before the girls got around to the doors, thus saving a frightful catastrophe from taking place right on the campus.

THREE CLASSES TO HOLD MEETINGS TOMORROW

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF FOR THE CORNHUSKER TO BE ELECTED

MEMBERS OF PUBLICATION BOARD

Underclassmen to Choose Their Representatives in Various Places—Follows the Rally.

Three university classes will hold political conclaves tomorrow following the All-University rally, which is to be held at 11 o'clock. The juniors will meet in music hall of the Temple, the sophomores in Memorial hall, and the freshmen in the Temple theater.

An editor-in-chief for the 1912 Cornhusker and a senior managing editor will be elected by the juniors. Dana Van Dusen is the only candidate for the editor-in-chiefship. No candidates are announced for the other positions, but reliable rumor has it that Robert Ferguson and Ernest Graves will be nominated. The juniors will also chose a member for the student publication board. No candidates are out.

In the sophomore class only one man has been announced as an aspirant to a place on the publication board, but it is thought that some fierce rivalry will develop before the meeting. L. C. Erskine is a candidate for election by the sophomore class.

Two freshmen will be in the race for the freshman place on the board. Sam Chamberlain and Raymond Smith, both graduates of Beatrice high school, have announced their desire for membership on the student board.
